Heritage Helpers

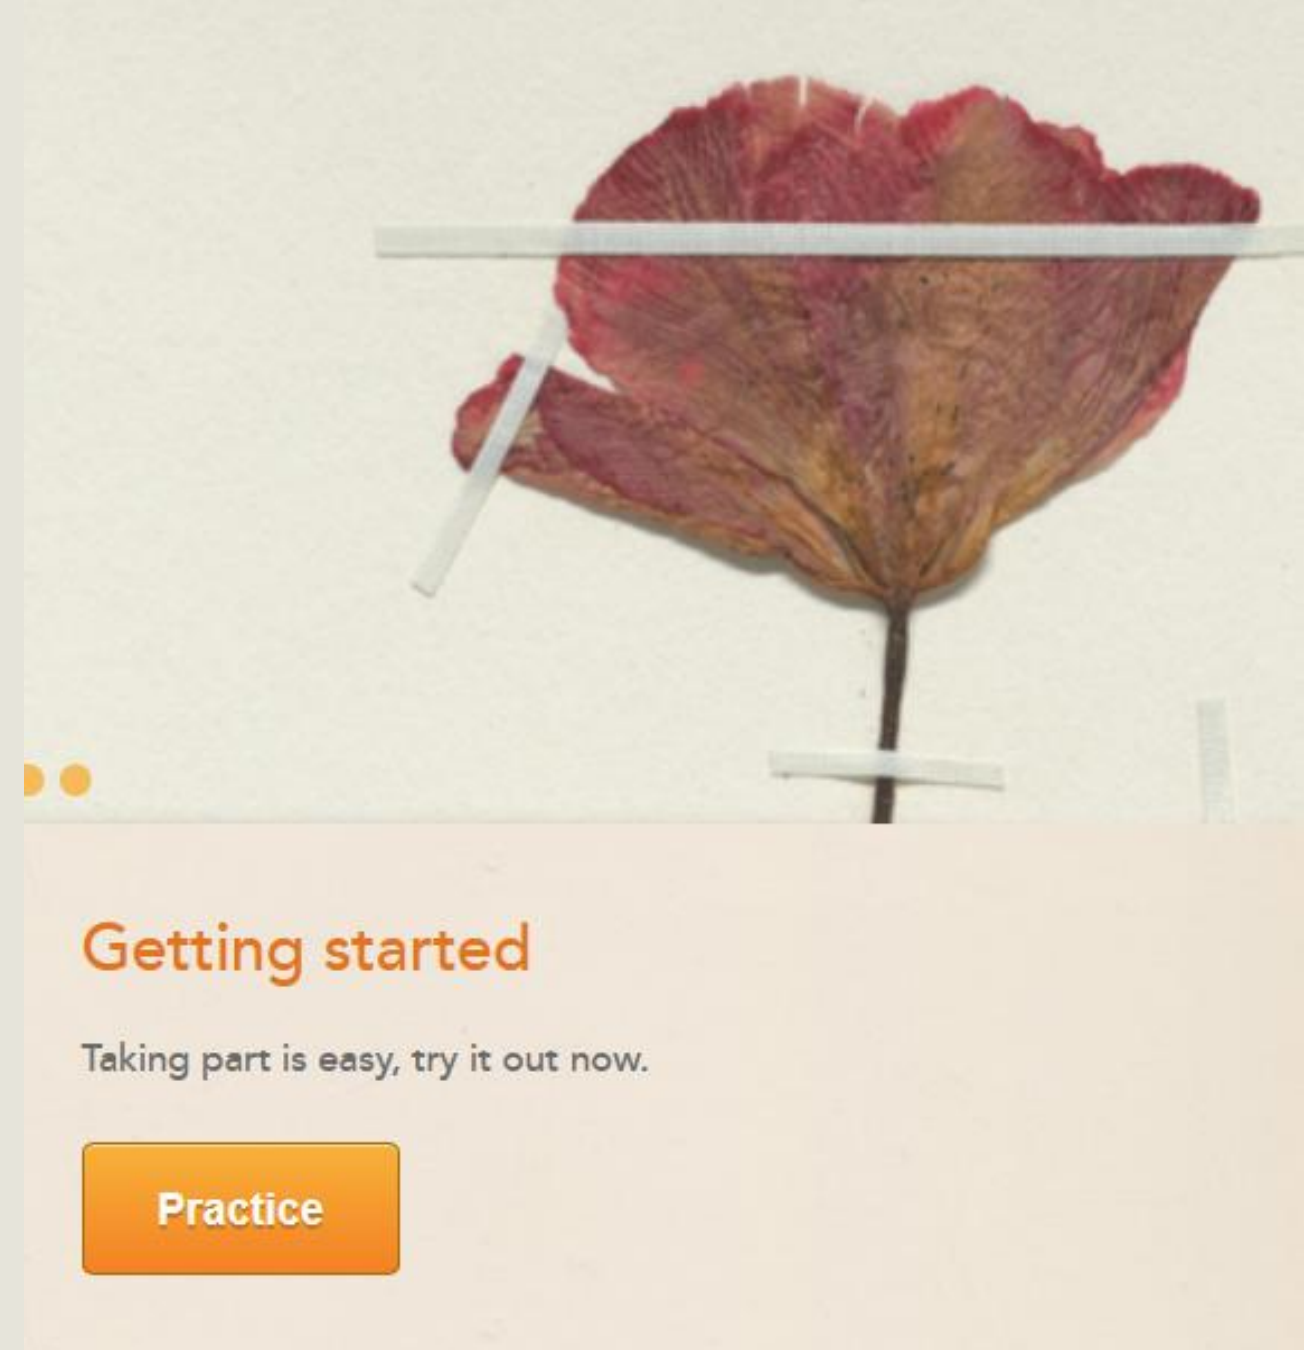

(Vele Handen)

A crowdsourcing platform

That accelerates the description of digital archives of cultural institutions by including volunteers as co-creators

With an online platform bringing supply (archives) and demand (volunteers) together

How to Online training

- Lowers the threshold to start
- Contributes to self-confidence
- Increases quality of input

The screenshot shows the Heritage Helpers.org website interface. At the top, the logo and navigation menu (Home, Projects, Participants, News, About us, Help) are visible. Below the navigation, a section titled "Demonstration explanation" instructs users to click through four steps. A progress bar shows "Step 2" as the active step. The main content area is titled "Step 2" and provides instructions: "Enter the whole text in the transcription field." and "When you find a date, location, event, name, unit or valuable keyword, choose a field to enter the data separately." To the right, a "Demo project" interface is shown with a text transcription of a document. A blue box highlights a sentence: "of the 2nd Corps. They had, to be sure, five miles farther to go, having bivouacked at Solre-sur-Sambre." Below this, a dropdown menu is open, showing options: "Locations" (selected), "Entry field", "Dates covered", "Key events", "Key names", "Key units", and "Keywords". The "Locations" dropdown is also highlighted with a blue box, and the text "Solre-sur-Sambre" is visible in the selected option.

What do the volunteers say?

Impact!

“The fun part about participating, is that you can contribute anytime you want. And, just like reading a book, you can also leave it for a while.” – Theo Karamba

Co creation is convenient: anywhere & anytime

“When I saw the announcement for Heritage Helpers, it felt like an opportunity to give something back.” – Inez

Co creation changes into ownership

What do the volunteers say?

Impact!

- “I learned a lot about Amsterdam. How people lived back in the day, what the streets and houses looked like, what has since disappeared, how much personnel people had, how many people lived together in a small basement.” – Ina Eijkman-Meddens

Co creation changes into knowledge and sense of community
